ADULT MEDICINE PRN NEWSLETTER

The biannual newsletter of the ACCP Adult Medicine PRN

Message from the Chair

By: Jon Wietholter, PharmD, BCPS, FCCP

If I am being completely forthcoming, when I ascended to the role of AMED PRN Chair last October, my biggest concern was developing two "Message from the Chair" submissions required for the AMED PRN Spring & Fall newsletters. I had significant difficulty wrapping my head around how to approach these columns to provide PRN members with messages that were both deep and profound. However, due to the incredible 2021-2022 AMED PRN leadership team consisting of Chair-Elect Rachel Flurie, Secretary/Treasurer Nicole Metzger, and Committee Chairs/Vice-Chairs (Emmeline Tran, Katy Dular, Alex Ebied, Carmen Smith, Erin Hennessey, Haley Johnson, Lyndsi Meyenburg, Lisa Hong, Ashley Otto, Matthew Laws, Beth Ford, Abigail Hoff, Melanie Manis, and Eric Kinney), my concern was completely unfounded.

Over the course of the last year, it dawned upon me that I don't have to write a single word seen as deep and profound to prove the AMED PRN had a fruitful year; I simply have to highlight the great work done within the PRN since last October. Despite persistent craziness consistently encircling our everyday lives, this year has been a hugely successful one for the AMED PRN. The leadership group mentioned above provided phenomenal support and guidance and I truly appreciate the opportunity to work with such an extraordinarily talented group of individuals. While I won't exhaust your eyes with every last piece of work the PRN completed this year, I do want to highlight some of our major accomplishments:

- Collaborated with the GI/Liver/Nutrition PRN to develop our upcoming 2022 ACCP Global Conference focus session and secured speakers in a way that incorporated diversity, equity, and inclusion

Message from the Chair Continued...

- Undertook a research endeavor entitled, "Nationwide evaluation of the clinical impact of internal medicine pharmacists across hospital settings" with PRN members collecting data and subsequently completing a survey outlining clinical interventions and involvement at their practice site; project results will be presented as a poster at the 2022 ACCP Global Conference
- Converted the PRN newsletter to the Canva platform
- Reached out to ACCP student chapters, College of Pharmacy liaisons, and PGY-2 Internal Medicine residency directors to increase overall student and resident PRN engagement
- Identified disease state guidelines of interest which will ultimately be added as a repository to the AMED PRN webpage
- Updated rubrics for poster evaluations to contain more objective data and provide a more balanced assessment of poster content and oral presentation delivery
- Worked to create a feedback template for both student- and resident-led presentations
- Developed and integrated a formal orientation process for new PRN members via video message

Hopefully, this not so subtle bragging proves to you what I already know; we had a great year cementing the fact the AMED PRN is building off past successes while continuing to push clinical pharmacy practice forward. Additionally, I believe these highlights delineate the impact that being part of a PRN Committee can have and hope that each and every one of you will consider volunteering for one during the upcoming year. Being part of an AMED PRN Committee is not only professionally rewarding, but it connects you with members from across the country and is an excellent networking opportunity.

Lastly, I simply want to say thank you. I've previously mentioned that I believe this PRN is a network of some of the brightest pharmacotherapeutic minds across the globe that will continue to expand the boundaries of what a clinical pharmacist can do in both traditional and unique pharmacy practice settings. I am truly humbled and honored to have been able to serve in a leadership role within the AMED PRN over the last 3 years, look forward to great things to come from the PRN in the future, and look ahead in anticipation to catching up with many of you in San Francisco soon.

Congrats!
