House of Delegates: Pros and Cons

Brian L. Erstad, Pharm.D., FCCP, BCPS

ACCP has periodically dealt with issues related to governance, leadership opportunities, and member involvement beyond the usual committee work and activities of the PRNs. One notable example is a survey on organizational governance requested by President John E. Murphy in 2009, which led to the subsequent appointment of a special task force on governance by President James E. Tisdale. This task force was formed to provide recommendations to the Board of Regents on how ACCP could expand the field of members (particularly members without primary academic appointments) in ACCP elections. Another governance-related issue relates to consideration of a house of delegates for ACCP. Currently, the ACCP Board of Regents sets policy for ACCP per se, and as separate tax-exempt entities, the ACCP Foundation Board of Trustees and Pharmacotherapy Publications Board of Directors set the policy for their respective areas of responsibility (albeit with accountability to the Board of Regents). In the College's early stages of growth and development, it would have been onerous and likely resource-prohibitive for ACCP to have a house of delegates, but with today's membership of over 18,000, the organization is large enough to reconsider this issue.

As someone who buys into the general concept of evidence-based medicine, I did a quick search to see whether any papers discussed the advantages and disadvantages of a house-of-delegates and/or board policy-approval process by not-for-profit organizations. I was surprised by the lack of useful literature on this topic. I thus began compiling my own list of potential pros and cons of ACCP's creating a house of delegates (see table). I use the word potential because I don't think most of these arguments for or against a house of delegates are as dichotomous as they sound; rather, they represent tendencies on a more continuous scale. This list was developed from my own experiences as a member of several not-for-profit organizations and associations with and without houses of delegates.

Potential Pros	Potential Cons
Increased member participation in governance	Resource-intensive (time, staff, and fiscal resources)
More of a grass-roots form of policy-making	Inefficient
More transparency in policy-making process	Tendency to develop unnecessary policy
Increased member awareness of policy process	Similar to "sausage-making"

I think the pro arguments are relatively straightforward, but some of the con arguments deserve further explanation. Clearly, a house of delegates can be resource-intensive. Although the process may seem episodic to members of an organization, there are ongoing activities that require dedicated staff and volunteer leaders' time. Furthermore, there are cost considerations such as securing meeting rooms or virtual platforms large/extensive enough to accommodate the necessary number of delegates. Two other potential cons of a house-of-delegates approach to policy-making are the tendency to develop unnecessary policy and the process itself, which some observers and participants consider proverbial "sausage-making" (i.e., it is difficult to watch, regardless of the outcome) with the invariable grandstanding and wordsmithing. The unnecessary policy often comes from delegates' natural urge to want to do something. Delegates may think that given the time, effort, and money devoted to this process, "we better pass something." This can result in a feel-good policy that does little good – or worse yet, leads to policy that is counterproductive to the organization's mission or efficient operation.

I want to conclude by saying that, in general, I think ACCP's approach to policy development has worked well, and I do not feel compelled to pine for a house of delegates. Here is a brief overview of ACCP's current policy-making process. Any ACCP member is welcome to suggest policy to be considered by the Board of Regents. After discussion and deliberation, and if the Board feels action is warranted, staff will be charged with developing a draft policy for review. Or, for less time-sensitive issues, the Board may refer the potential policy to a committee for further discussion and development. The Board will then review and possibly suggest refinements to the draft. Once there is general agreement on the policy's wording, the Board will consider it for approval. Past experience suggests that the timeline for this process is much shorter than for a house-of-delegates approach. In closing, I suspect I may have missed some important pros or cons in my discussion of this issue, or placed undue emphasis on some items, so I welcome your feedback.

2020–2021 PRN Officers

The votes are in, and members have selected the future leaders of ACCP's Practice and Research Networks (PRNs). Please extend your congratulations to both the newly elected officers and those who are continuing to serve their respective PRNs in the coming year.

VIRTUAL PLATFORM FOR 2020 ACCP ANNUAL MEETING OFFERS UNIQUE BENEFITS

Members of ACCP's PRNs are well acquainted with the broad array of reasons for attending the College's annual meeting. Whether your favorite activity is earning recertification credits, keeping up with the latest developments in your specialty, building on your skillset with ACCP Academy programming, perusing scientific poster sessions, or networking with peers, the virtual meeting platform will deliver all of the elements you have come to expect – straight to the comfort of your home or office.

2020 may have brought its share of challenges, but a virtual annual meeting also comes with benefits. Eliminating travel costs and reducing time off work are just the beginning. With more than 100 hours of educational programming and deeply discounted registration rates, the virtual 2020 ACCP Annual Meeting is an incredible value. In addition, the dates for the meeting have been extended to October 19–30 to better accommodate attendees' schedules and maximize access to essential programming.

For the first time, attendees won't have to choose between concurrent sessions. ACCP will make all 100+ hours of programming (including live sessions) available to meeting attendees for future playback. So, attendees of live sessions will have the option to attend the live event to interact with speakers and colleagues, or to stream the recording when it is most convenient. All programming will be available through January 31, 2021, so you will have plenty of time to stream as many sessions as you like and earn associated CPE and/or recertification credit.

The full schedule includes on-demand programs (released daily), prerecorded/synchronous programs with live question-and-answer discussions, and live/synchronous presentations. The chart on page 4 illustrates the features of each session type.

Register on or before October 5 to take advantage of discounted registration rates. Once you have registered, encourage your peers to join you by using #ACCPAM20 on social media, or adding the annual meeting frame to your Facebook profile picture.

Clinical Administration PRN

The Clinical Administration PRN hosted a roundtable on managing clinical services during COVID restrictions. Discussions about moving workers from on-site to remote, expanding clinical expertise for new ICU units created for patients with COVID, adjusting student rotations, and continuing services when staff are furloughed were very helpful for participants. Michael Wong and the Student and Resident Committee hosted a journal club discussion on the HBR article, "If You Feel Like Your Regressing, You're Not Alone." The PRN looks forward to the annual webinar panel on "Applying for HSPA Residencies" later this fall.

NEW CLINICAL PRACTICE-FOCUSED PROGRAMMING AT THE 2020 ACCP ANNUAL MEETING

You are invited to attend the virtual 2020 ACCP Annual Meeting sessions focused on comprehensive medication management (CMM). New this year, ACCP will offer two symposia emphasizing the implementation and enhancement of CMM services.

On Tuesday, October 20, a prerecorded session, "Expanding CMM Practice – Examples in Substance Use Disorder and Pharmacogenomics," will be made available at 12:01 a.m. (CST) and will remain available on-demand for all Annual Meeting registrants. This 90-minute session will include two presentations. The first, applying the CMM model of practice in a substance use disorder clinic, will be presented by Dr. Keri Hager, who will provide practical tips on how the CMM model of practice can be applied within a specialty environment. Although Hager's session will be based on her experience in transitioning her CMM service from a primary care environment to a substance use disorder clinic, the barriers and enablers she describes will apply to CMM implementation in any specialty. The second presentation, by Dr. Kristin Wiisanen, will focus on incorporating pharmacogenomic data into the CMM process of care. Wiisanen will provide opportunities to evaluate the role of, and develop a framework for implementing, pharmacogenomics within your practice.

"Clinical Pharmacy and Telehealth: Design, Implementation, and Practice" will be released Monday, October 26, at 2:30 p.m. (CST), and will be followed by a live Q&A with the presenters at 3:45 p.m. This session will be available on-demand to Annual Meeting registrants. In this session, Dr. Leeann Webster will present "Designing a Successful Telehealth Program." She will describe her experience with designing and implementing pharmacist-led telehealth visits across a health care system in response to the COVID-19 pandemic, including legal, regulatory, and financial considerations. Next, Dr. Melissa Badowski will discuss her CMM telehealth program, describing the selection and application of appropriate implementation tools and the ongoing benefits and challenges of sustaining a successful telehealth program. Join the College for the Annual Meeting and tune in for these contemporary, high-quality CMM sessions.

Here is a quick update on the ACCP Foundation's activities since the last PRN Report. As always, thank you for your support and engagement.

Coming Soon: Plan Your Walk-Rounds Through the Scientific Poster Presentations

Many PRNs conduct "walk-rounds" during the Scientific Poster Presentations at the ACCP Annual Meeting each year. In these, small groups of PRN members move through preselected posters and discuss the findings and implications of the presentations with the authors. Granted, the virtual presentation of posters this year will make the interaction different, but freely available video chat technology will make participating in this engaging activity easy and convenient. Again this year, each PRN (through officers) will be provided with a list of posters for which members of their respective PRNs are named as presenting authors or coauthors. The lists are expected to be distributed by early October. If your PRN does not receive a copy, please contact Shelly Enders (senders@accp.com).

2021 Futures Grants: Mentored Research Awards

The ACCP Foundation's Futures Grants program for student, trainee, and early-career ACCP members is designed to support the development of research skills and establish sustained interest and careers in pharmacy research. The amount of Futures Grants awards ranges from $5000 to $40,000, depending on applicant eligibility and budget approval. Up to $100,000 in mentored, developmental research awards are expected to be distributed through the Futures Grants program in 2021.

The next grant application cycle will open May 15, 2021, and completed applications will be due no later than September 1, 2021. Grants will be reviewed and scored by translational category of the research in addition to the applicant's eligibility level. For more information about this grant award program, visit www.accpfoundation.org/futures.

The 2020 Futures Grants application period closed September 1, and award recipients will be announced by November 15, 2020.

Investigator Development

The Foundation's research development programs will return in 2021, after the pandemic forced cancellations last June.

Mentored Research Investigator Training (MeRIT) Program

This one-of-a-kind training program is designed to help pharmacists develop the abilities necessary to conduct investigator-initiated research, either independently as a principal investigator or as an active co-investigator within a research team. Ideal candidates for the MeRIT Program are pharmacy faculty or practitioners with limited research experience who are:

- Committed to incorporating research into their professional careers;
- Interested in generating research themes or obtaining preliminary data for larger funding opportunities; and
- Aspiring to be active principal investigators or co-investigators within a research team.

MeRIT is a 2-year longitudinal program that uses a combination of live and virtual teaching and mentoring methods to provide trainees with the support and education they need throughout the research experience (i.e., from idea, proposal development, funding application, and project completion to presentation and publication).

The application period for the 2021 MeRIT Program will open in November 2020, with letters of intent due February 28, 2021, and full applications due March 31, 2021. The primer program will be held June 21–25, 2021, on the campus of the University of Kentucky College of Pharmacy in Lexington.

Focused Investigator Training (FIT) Program

The Foundation's flagship pharmacist investigator training program will also continue June 21–25, 2021, at the University of Kentucky College of Pharmacy in Lexington. If you plan to submit (or resubmit) a research proposal to the NIH or other major foundation/organization funding source, FIT should be on your agenda.

This 5-day, intensive, hands-on program has a strong history of participant success, as it pairs experienced and funded faculty mentors with investigator-participants. The program is geared to fine-tune R-type investigator-initiated proposals and K-type career development awards. The ideal applicant is a mid-career, fellowship-trained, tenure-track or research-focused pharmacist. The application period for the 2021 FIT Program will open in November 2020, with letters of intent due February 28, 2021, and full applications due March 31, 2021.

More information on MeRIT and FIT is available on the Foundation's website here.

WASHINGTON UPDATE

ACCP Government and Professional Affairs COVID Response Summary

As the nation's leaders and policy-makers struggle with the ongoing response to the COVID-19 pandemic, the ACCP team in Washington, D.C., has been collaborating with its partner pharmacy organizations and an established network of external health care stakeholder coalitions to help align the appropriate resources and expertise within the profession with the complex needs that exist within the nation's care delivery systems. The following paragraphs summarize the advocacy efforts the College has helped lead.

Pharmacy-Specific Initiatives

- Thirteen-organization JCPP-led letter seeking guidance from the U.S. Department of Health & Human Services (HHS) on pharmacist authorization under the Public Readiness and Emergency Preparedness Act (PREP Act) to order and administer FDA-authorized COVID-19 vaccines. To avoid misunderstandings by state and local regulators and any resulting delays, the letter called on HHS to specify that its declaration under the PREP Act preempts any state or local requirement that prohibits or effectively prohibits a pharmacist from ordering and administering a COVID-19 vaccine.
- ACCP/IDSA/SHEA response to HHS guidance on pharmacist-provided COVID testing.
- ACCP statement to Senate HELP Committee highlighting pharmacist leadership in COVID testing stewardship.
- Ongoing support for efforts within the pharmacy profession and beyond to advance a proposal that would provide student loan relief for key health personnel who engage in COVID-19 pandemic response efforts:
 - Click here to read the JCPP-led letter.
 - Click here to read an interprofessional letter.

Other Interprofessional Stakeholder COVID-Related Advocacy

- American Lung Association/American Heart Association call to action to address shortages of personal protective equipment for health care providers: Click here to read the letter in full.
- Trust for America's Health (TFAH) calling for $4.5 billion in additional funding to protect against emergency preparedness shortfalls. Click here to read the letter in full.

- Letter to Congress in support of including $100 million for the Surveillance for Emerging Threats to Mothers and Babies program in the next COVID-19 legislative response package.
- Letter urging congressional leadership to support increased, sustained annual funding for state, local, tribal, and territorial public health infrastructure.
- Letter to HHS Secretary Alex Azar calling for sustained funding for the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC).

GTMRx Institute Issues "Blueprint for Change"

Addressing the Need for Optimization of Medication and Gene Therapies

The Get the Medications Right \(GTMRx\) Institute is a multi-stakeholder collaboration formed to ensure the appropriate and personalized use of medication and gene therapies by advancing to a scientific, evidence-based, and cost-effective decision-making process and a team-based, systematic approach to medication use. Since its inception, over 950 individuals and organizations, including professional organizations, provider groups, patient advocacy and consumer groups, and pharmaceutical, diagnostics, and IT companies – together with employers and payers – have joined GTMRx in this work.

Released in July 2020, the GTMRx Blueprint for Change outlines steps for medication optimization, including adoption of an evidence-based process of care, implementation of CMM, and application of a personalized approach that enhances care, reduces costs, and improves patient satisfaction and provider worklife. The blueprint is based on 8 months of multi-stakeholder input and guidance to facilitate, engage, and promote medication optimization. The Blueprint Launch Resource Center contains several other useful items, including an evidence document summarizing key papers, case examples, FAQs, and social media tools.

Election Year Grassroots Action: Advocacy Is a Process, Not an Intervention

Consistent with the College's Strategic Plan focused on positioning and advancing the profession in evolving team-based care structures, ACCP is committed to an advocacy platform that not only goes well beyond seeking recognition for the value of pharmacists (the "who"), but also carefully defines the value of the clinical care process that contributes directly to improved patient outcomes (the "what").

Like patient care, development of health policy, particularly at the federal level, is complex and ever-evolving. The College's work to define comprehensive medication management (CMM) as a clinical service was in recognition that you can't "get the medications right" without a comprehensive process of patient care. Similarly, development of complex health policy requires commitment to a comprehensive advocacy process that helps policy-makers at all levels fully understand, and appropriately value, the clinical services of pharmacists in team-based medication optimization.

Call to Action

A successful ACCP advocacy process requires clinical pharmacist-led education and relationship development to ensure policy-makers across all levels of government fully understand the importance of medication optimization as a core component of patient-centered, quality-focused practice structures and why board-certified clinical pharmacists are uniquely trained and qualified to deliver these essential services as part of integrated care teams. Here are suggestions to help build an effective grassroots advocacy process:

Register to Vote

Voting is the simplest but most important civic responsibility. Because of COVID-19, there may be changes to when, where, and how you vote in your upcoming elections.

- Check with your state election site for more information.

Send a Letter to Congress

Given that clinical pharmacists (Marcia Buck, Kathy Pham, and Amie Brooks) make up most of the College's Government and Professional Affairs team, ACCP is sincere in its belief that its members are the most effective advocates for their profession and their patients. Members of Congress need to hear from clinical pharmacists delivering direct patient care services in their state or district to learn firsthand about the value clinical pharmacists bring to the medication optimization process.

The ongoing COVID pandemic means that health care issues are of high priority to policy-makers. It is important they hear from you to learn how your work improves the lives of patients and contributes to enhanced health care team efficiency.

Contacting the offices of your elected officials is simple. The College has prepared a letter for you to review and edit. Simply follow the instructions to send this message to Capitol Hill. Please take the time to personalize the letter by providing additional information about your practice and the patients you care for and highlight what the COVID pandemic has meant for your practice and patients.

- Click here to send a letter to Congress today.

Invite Your Elected Officials to Tour Your Practice Site

Beyond simply writing to Congress, hosting an elected official to tour your practice site is a unique way to truly establish an ongoing relationship. Many members of Congress are working to remain engaged with constituents, even with the barriers of social distancing, by participating in virtual tours, so consider opportunities to explore similar options as the November elections approach.

Pharmacists across the country are working under extraordinary circumstances to improve patient outcomes through team-based models of care. As policy-makers assess the strengths and weaknesses of the nation's health care infrastructure, it is vital they hear about the ongoing work of clinical pharmacists.

- Click here to send a letter inviting your federally elected officials on a site tour.

Contribute to ACCP-PAC

Political Action Committee (PAC) contributions are a constitutionally protected part of the political system under the First Amendment's guarantee of free speech.

ACCP-PAC is the only means through which the College can provide financial support for candidates for Congress. With its more than 18,000 members, ACCP is in a position to become one of the most prominent pharmacy PACs in Washington. To do this, the College needs the widespread support of its membership. If each ACCP member contributed just $30, ACCP-PAC would raise over $500,000. All ACCP members should consider donating at least $30 to ACCP-PAC.

ACCP-ASHP-VCU Congressional Healthcare Policy Fellow Update

Nimit Jindal is currently serving as the American College of Clinical Pharmacy–American Society of Health-System Pharmacists–Virginia Commonwealth University Congressional Healthcare Policy Fellow for 2020–2021.

Jindal recently completed a PGY1 community-based pharmacy residency at Moose Pharmacy in Concord, North Carolina, through the UNC Eshelman School of Pharmacy program. He earned his Pharm.D. degree from the Ernest Mario School of Pharmacy at Rutgers. Jindal completed an 8-week orientation with the Government Affairs teams of the sponsoring organizations. He will spend the next 12 months serving as a health policy staff member on the U.S. Senate Committee on Health, Education, Labor, and Pensions (HELP) working for the minority under Sen. Patty Murray (D-WA).

Launched in 2006 under the guidance of ACCP's Dr. C. Edwin Webb, the fellow program comprises unique health care policy learning experiences in the U.S. Congress and the Government Affairs offices of ACCP and ASHP. Pharmacists who participate in the program have the opportunity to gain real-world insight into health care policy analysis and development through immersion in the congressional environment. Fellows are actively mentored in legislative evaluation, policy development, research, and writing while integrating practical experience with theory.

Jindal decided to attend pharmacy school because, as the son of an independent pharmacy owner, he grew up working in the pharmacy as a cashier and interacting with an underserved patient population. "I would see a lot of patients decline certain medications simply because they couldn't afford them, even with insurance," he said. "I saw community practice as a way of making a difference on the ground, in the communities, and serving the patients I felt compelled to help when I was a cashier in that environment," he said, adding:

In pharmacy school, I heard a lot about payment models and delivery models. I was interested in getting engaged in policy, but I knew that before I could do that, I needed to understand how those models work, so that's why I pursued a community pharmacy residency.

For the past 2 years, Jindal has served as the Piscataway Township Ward 4 Elected Committeeman, where he has engaged with elected members of the local and state governments to develop policy solutions to infrastructure and educational funding concerns. This experience and other opportunities he has had that influence policy changes fueled his decision to pursue this fellowship. "I'm really excited about this program because I feel like I have a good idea of how patients access care in our communities," he said. "There's really no other program in the country that allows you to develop such a strong foundation to go out and make meaningful changes in the health care policy environment."

After completing the fellowship, Jindal hopes to continue to be engaged in health policy development, whether at a state or federal level: "I think keeping pharmacists and other health care providers involved in the policy conversation is how we really push the envelope forward."

Alumni Fellows

The 2019–2020 Fellow, Kyle Robb, Pharm.D., is also finishing his work with the minority staff of the Senate HELP Committee. After serving in the program, other past fellows have similarly engaged in a variety of important roles in health care policy and government:

- Nilofar Jafari, Pharm.D., MPH, currently serves as a

Senior Health Consultant at Booz Allen Hamilton in its military health division.

- Rita A. Habib, Pharm.D., MPH, is currently a full-time staff member in the office of Sen. Michael Bennet (D-CO).
- Tracy Rupp, Pharm.D., MPH, is currently a Consumer Safety Officer, CDER Office of Compliance at the U.S. Food & Drug Administration (FDA).
- Daniel Nam, RPh, J.D., the 2013–2014 Fellow, is now the Associate Principal, Pharmacy Policy at Avalere Health.

ACCP Student Chapter Award Announced

This award recognizes the ACCP student chapter that has exemplified strength in leadership, dedication in patient care, and passion for professional development through its activities and membership. The chapter's activities should address ACCP's core values of extending the frontiers of clinical pharmacy and promoting dedication to excellence in patient care, research, and education. A key component of all the core values is the clinical pharmacist's ability to work collaboratively within the health care environment. Each chapter must demonstrate its ability to work with other health disciplines. Please join ACCP in congratulating this year's Outstanding Student Chapter Award winner, Virginia Commonwealth University (VCU) at the Medical College of Virginia Campus School of Pharmacy. ACCP will present the officers representing VCU with the Outstanding Chapter plaque and a $1000 award during the Awards session of the virtual 2020 ACCP Annual Meeting.
